Steering
We steer towards the future

Steering must be easy. Lightweight and easy to navigate. Walter Henrich produces even complex thin-walled piping components without economising on quality. Cutting and non-cutting procedures are used for this purpose. In the end, dimensions, surface and edges correspond exactly to your expectations and thus perfectly fit your component assembly.

Germany is a car country. Perfect quality is therefore indispensable when it comes to the construction of safe vehicles. Lightweight, environmental awareness and solidity are basic requirements. Since we fully live up to these demands, Walter Henrich GmbH was able to establish itself as an important supplier to the automotive industry.
